

Wireless providers should include their federal regulatory fees in the monthly rates so consumers know what their monthly bill will be. I believe their current line item billing method is, at the least misleading, at the worst dishonest business practice.